

SEARCHERS IN SUBMARINE FIND CREW'S REMAINS

(Continued from page one)

the submarine's interior. They are Dr. H. C. Carl, chief surgeon of the Maryland; Dr. C. W. Ross, assistant surgeon; Dr. William Bowman of the naval station, and Dr. Walter A. Cress of the submarine tender Alert.

At noon Lieut. Crittenden said it will take several days to clear away the wreckage from the submarine. In the morning, battery plates and various fittings from the interior were thrown in a pile several feet high.

Disappointment met the searchers as concerns finding of bodies intact. Instead of finding bodies in a fair state of preservation, they did not locate even skeletons.

That the land acted on the bodies to wear them away was the theory advanced by a number of naval officers who watched the work. Fish and other sea life also undoubtedly had their effect.

Lieut. W. H. Carter, in command of the Hawaiian Department, U. S. A., visited the scene of operations shortly before noon. Several other army officers were also present.

Lying in drydock the F-4 presented a morbidly interesting sight to a large crowd of spectators who stood outside the drydock fence seven deep, pressing their faces against the railings to get a better view. There were all sorts and conditions of men and women in that gathering, but all there in the hope, apparently, that they could perhaps catch a glimpse of the bodies being taken out. They were disappointed, but still they watched.

White men, Hawaiians, Japanese, negroes, and young women were there, and even some society women in expensive motor cars. One woman, not inside the drydock and was on the point of walking down to where work was actually going on, when she was stopped by Lieut. Crittenden, who told her no women were allowed there. Photographers were kept back as well and allowed to take only pictures from the bow end of the F-4.

The raised submarine's color is a gray similar to a dried mud-flat, with streaks of brown rust here and there and in other places her dark red hull paint showing beneath like a smoldering fire below a haze of gray smoke. Her under side is a faint moss-green tinged with a mud-color gray, and the huge hole in her right side gapes like a wound in some prehistoric monster.

The large Reclamation, which was the center of operations in the salvage work, was held up alongside Pier 2 today, after picking up the four mooring buoys and anchors above the spot where the F-4 lay before she was brought to the surface Sunday afternoon.

Everyone connected with the work of clearing out the submarine's interior was covered from head to foot with grease, grime and rust streaks today. White caps worn by the officers at noon looked as if they had been liberally daubed with copious applications of axle grease.

Bodies Are Located.

Shortly after 9 o'clock this morning came the first news that a body had been found inside the torn hull. Admiral Boush and Lieut. comdr. Furer confirmed the news a few moments later. At that time all that had been found was a human leg which projected through tangled debris and showed that a body lay underneath.

This body was discovered in the middle or battery compartment of the F-4. Not enough was found to establish then whether or not it could be identified.

At 10:30 Admiral Boush gave out the information that several bodies had been discovered. This did not mean that the bodies entire had been found but that evidences were sufficient to establish the remains of several.

"No report has yet been made to me on the state of preservation but naturally it cannot be expected to be good," said the admiral.

During the morning there was a short session of the special board of inquiry at the naval station, of which

Photographs of F-4 in Drydock, Showing How She Lay When Brought From Sea

Star-Bulletin staff photo. Copyright 1915, Kodagraph, Honolulu.

YALE WORKERS BOUND TO CHINA ARE ON MONGOLIA

Admiral Boush is chairman. The session was to organize the board and begin assembling the data at hand.

Ever since the submarine appeared above the surface last night there have been curious notes taken on such things as the condition of the notes will go into the final summing-up of conclusions, though, as one of the officials observed, there may be a great many notes taken which in the end will prove of little real value. However, every fact and figure that appears at all noticeable will be taken down for discussion by the board.

To take up the college and medical work maintained in Changchun, China, by the members of the Yale alumni association, a distinguished party of men and women is on board the Mongolia at Honolulu's docks this afternoon en route to the Orient.

The party is composed of Dr. E. H. Hume and family, Prof. and Mrs. D. H. Levens, Dr. Augusta A. Sassen, J. Donald Robb, and A. B. Fischen. The last two are members of the class which was graduated last June from Yale.

Dr. Hume, who is at the head of the medical department of the Yale College in China, is on his way back from the states, where he went expressly to select instructors for his department. Prof. Levens has already completed three years' work at Changchun. His visit to the states was to advanced work in mathematics. Dr. Sassen, the woman physician of the party, is a native of Germany, but came to the United States as a little child. The ambition she has long had to secure medical education and fit herself for work in China is now being gratified.

ISHII ON HIS WAY TO TAKE UP CABINET JOB

(Special Cable to Hawaii Shipper)

TOKIO, August 31.—K. Ishii, Japanese ambassador to France, is now on his way to Tokyo to accept the

THE F-4

By Arthur E. Bly.

No from the sea they've brought her.

Who had sworn to remain a tomb.

To class her dead in her wreckage.

Mid coral and kelp and gloom.

Look in her iron belly.

She laughed to her mate the sea.

"They thought they could be my master.

But they reckoned a bit too free."

Through the ether flashed a message.

"They're dead and they died like men—

Shall we let them rot in the sea-way?

These boys whom we mourn in vain."

"Go forth," said the answering impulse.

"And wrest her from the sea."

Yo have known what our navy conquered.

Now see that ye set them free."

They heard, and with leaping pulses

Hammered and dived and won.

Grappled her hull and raised her.

And called it a good job done.

When Farragut, Jones and Perry

Talk over the navy again.

They'll say, "We still have heroes.

Cast your eye on Furer's men."

I MIGHT LEAVE HERE IN A WEEK, AND MIGHT STAY

So Says District Attorney Jeff McCarn, Who Has "Come Back" to Honolulu

Attired in a natty white suit and somewhat sunburned, District Attorney Jeff McCarn "came back" to Honolulu in the steamer Wilhelmina this morning—just as he said he would do when he left here some months ago for his former home in Nashville, Tennessee.

"Come right in," he called to a reporter from behind a pile of mail in his office in the federal court building. "I haven't any news for you, however."

Questions regarding the reappointment of Chief Justice A. G. M. Robertson and Judge William L. Whitney were passed up by the district attorney with a smile. He said he had heard this news in San Francisco. He said he had also read in the Star-Bulletin the status of the local governor's office as outlined by the department of justice in Washington, D. C. He would not discuss these matters.

"While I was in Nashville," said Mr. McCarn, "I was called to Washington, D. C., three times, each time in response to a telegram from the attorney-general."

"I discussed with the attorney-general the general situation regarding the judiciary in Hawaii, and also other matters in which the department of justice is interested," he added.

Mr. McCarn said that he was not at liberty to make public the details of any of the discussions. He denied that he had gone to Washington on his own initiative in search of a position of the local bench, or any other position.

"I was never pushed for any position," he explained, "and if any man ever asked the attorney-general for any position in my behalf, it was without my knowledge or consent."

A short time ago it was reported that Mr. McCarn, after his return to Honolulu, would remain here only about three weeks; that the department of justice had him slated for a position elsewhere.

"I have no more idea when I am going to leave this place than you have," he said to the reporter. "I neither have to go or do I have to stay. My going or staying is entirely voluntary."

"I might leave here in a week. I might stay until my term of office expires. I have no idea what I will do. It all depends upon the future."

"I will stay in Hawaii if I feel that it is the proper thing to do, from all standpoints. If I feel that it is too much of a sacrifice, I will not stay."

As to his running for senator from Tennessee, Mr. McCarn said that while he was in Nashville a number of his friends started a campaign to secure backing for him through the circulation of a petition.

"But I have given these friends no definite answer in this matter," he added.

Mr. McCarn's three children are going to school in Nashville. Mrs. McCarn is also there, and is visiting with friends. She probably will return to Honolulu within a few months.

The district attorney said that while he was on the mainland he conferred with only one newspaper. He wrote an article for the Nashville (Tenn.) Banner. Asked regarding several mainland newspaper articles which have been reprinted in Honolulu, purporting to be interviews with him, the district attorney said:

"Of course, I might have been talking to persons who were newspapermen, but I did not know it at the time."

WANTED
Experienced salesman and collector desires position. Can furnish best of references. Box 212, Star-Bulletin. 6256-3t

SITUATION WANTED.
Experienced salesman and collector desires position. Can furnish best of references. Box 212, Star-Bulletin. 6256-3t

Love's Bakery

FIRE-PROOF STORAGE
WE STORE EVERYTHING. JAMES H. LOVE
CITY TRANSFER COMPANY PHONE 1281

What Size Hat Do You Wear?

There's a reason for the asking. We have had a beautiful sample line of Crofut-Knapp Hats submitted to us. Instead of returning the samples, we will sell them

There are both Straws and Felts, but not a complete line of sizes. We'll sell every sample at Straws, $2.²⁵ --- Felts, $2.⁷⁵

You'll probably get your size if you hurry.

THE IDEAL

76 Hotel Street

Pantheon Building